Dear Stan:

Your appearance at the National Defense University a year ago was exceptionally beneficial for the faculty and students, and I am writing to see if we could persuade you to return to Fort McNair this academic year to speak to the Class of 1980.

Our students reported in August and are well launched into their academic programs. The mission specific thrust of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces is the management of resources in the interests of national security, and that of the National War College is national security policy formulation and the planning and implementation of national strategy.

Ideally, we would like you to appear on Wednesday, 5 December at 10:15 a.m. in a format similar to your meeting with us last year. If you have written material that you would like our students to study in advance of your visit, we would be pleased to make such distribution.

Should your schedule permit, we would be honored to have you remain for lunch with representatives of the University and its constituent Colleges.

If 5 December is not convenient for you, we would be glad to arrange an alternative time.

We look forward to your reply, and greatly hope the combined classes of 1980 will have the pleasure and honor of welcoming you here this December.

With best wishes.

Sincerely,

R. G. GARD, JR.
